UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

PORTIA LEMMONS,
Plaintiff,
v.

No. C-12-03936 (JST) DMR

ORDER ON JOINT DISCOVERY
LETTER [DOCKET NO. 87]

ACE HARDWARE CORPORATION ET AL.,
Defendants.

On May 19, 2014, Plaintiff Portia Lemmons and Defendants Ace Hardware Corporation, Berkeley Hardware, Inc., and EQR-Acheson Commons LLP filed a joint letter brief regarding their discovery disputes. [Docket No. 87 (Joint Letter).] The court finds that the matter is appropriate for resolution without oral argument pursuant to Civil Local Rule 7-1(b) and issues the following rulings.

I. Discussion

On April 14, 2014, the parties filed a joint letter brief in which Plaintiff moved to compel Defendant Berkeley Hardware, Inc. (“Berkeley Hardware”) to produce certain documents and Defendant EQR-Acheson Commons LLP (“EQR”) to produce a Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) witness for deposition. [Docket No. 74.] The court conducted a hearing on the matter and issued an order on April 25, 2014 granting in part and denying in part Plaintiff’s motion to compel.

1 [Docket No. 78.] The parties' present dispute centers around two portions of the court's April 25,
2 2014 order. The court will address each in turn.

3 A. Employee Handbook

4 The court ordered Berkeley Hardware to produce the cover page and table of contents of its
5 employee handbook, along with its mission statement and section on operational policies. The court
6 also ordered the parties to meet and confer regarding the production of other policies or sections of 7 the handbook which Plaintiff believes are relevant to her claims. After receiving the table of 8 contents for the employee handbook, Plaintiff requested Berkeley Hardware produce a number of 9 additional sections. Berkeley Hardware confirmed its production of a number of the requested
10 sections, but refuses to produce the following four sections: 2-2 Work Schedules and Routine; 2-12
11 Open-Door Policy; 3-1 Rules of Conduct; and 3-10 Employee Parking. Berkeley Hardware
12 contends that the requested sections are not relevant to Plaintiff's claims.

13 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 provides that a party may obtain discovery "regarding 14 any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense." Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1).
15 "Relevant information need not be admissible at the trial if the discovery appears reasonably
16 calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence." Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). "Relevancy,
17 for the purposes of discovery, is defined broadly, although it is not without ultimate and necessary
18 boundaries." Gonzales v. Google, Inc., 234 F.R.D. 674, 679-80 (N.D. Cal. 2006). "[T]he party
19 opposing discovery has the burden of showing that discovery should not be allowed, and also has the 20 burden of clarifying, explaining and supporting its objections with competent evidence." *La. Pac.
21 Corp. v. Money Mkt. I Institutional Inv. Dealer*, 285 F.R.D. 481, 485 (N.D. Cal. 2012).

22 The court orders Berkeley Hardware to produce the employee handbook sections on Work
23 Schedules and Routine, Rules of Conduct, and Employee Parking. The Work Schedules and 24 Routine section of the employee handbook may address employee coverage, daily tasks, and the 25 coordination of completion of daily tasks between employees, which may bear on how employees
26 are trained to interact with customers. Similarly, the Rules of Conduct section may be relevant to 27 employee training. These sections are relevant to Plaintiff's discrimination claims based on her
28 treatment by Berkeley Hardware employees, as Plaintiff claims that Defendants discriminate against

1 her by requiring her to wait while items are brought to her instead of allowing her to shop
2 independently and by treating her as if she has a cognitive impairment.

3 As to the Employee Parking section, this section is relevant because one of Plaintiff's
4 architectural barrier challenges is based on Berkeley Hardware's lack of accessible parking.
5 Berkeley Hardware argues that the employee parking policy is irrelevant, citing Kornblau v. Dade
6 County, 86 F.3d 193, 194 (11th Cir. 1993). In Kornblau, the disabled plaintiff claimed that the ADA
7 entitled her to park in a private lot reserved for senior government officials, even though she was not
8 a county employee. The Eleventh Circuit found that the ADA did not support her claim, holding 9 that "nothing in the [ADA], its purpose, or the regulations can reasonably be read to give disabled
10 parkers access to areas that would not be available to them if they were not disabled." Id. However,
11 Kornblau is distinguishable, because in that case, the plaintiff was seeking access to something to 12 which non-disabled, non-government employees did not have access. Here, Plaintiff challenges the 13 lack of accessible parking in a lot otherwise available to the public. (See Compl. ¶¶ 13, 22.) The 14 rules regarding employee parking are thus relevant to this claim.

15 The court denies Plaintiff's request for production of the Open-Door Policy section of the 16 handbook, as Plaintiff has not shown how this section is relevant to her claims. Plaintiff argues that 17 the Open-Door Policy may address conflict resolution, but Berkeley Hardware contends (and 18 Plaintiff does not dispute) that she never made a complaint about her treatment at the store to any
19 Berkeley Hardware employees. (Joint Letter 5.)

20 Berkeley Hardware shall produce the Work Schedules and Routine, Rules of Conduct, and 21 Employee Parking sections of its employee handbook within seven days of this order.

22 B. EQR's 30(b)(6) Witness

23 The court ordered EQR to produce a 30(b)(6) witness to testify about whether EQR's other 24 properties are accessible, its policies and practices regarding evaluation of disabled access, its 25 purchase of the subject property, and its policies for providing access to the disabled at its other
26 properties. The court limited Plaintiff's inquiry into other EQR properties to its commercial 27 properties in California from 2008 to the present.

28

1 According to Plaintiff, after multiple inquiries EQR has not yet identified its 30(b)(6)
2 witness(es), and as of the parties' latest meet and confer, EQR asserted that it was still trying to
3 evaluate which properties meet the limitations described in the court's order. In response, EQR
4 argues (as it did in the first joint letter) that producing a 30(b)(6) witness is unnecessary because
5 Plaintiff already has testimony and documents relevant to these issues. EQR asks the court to 6 reconsider its order requiring it to produce a 30(b)(6) witness on these topics. (Joint Letter 8.)

7 The court finds that EQR’s request for reconsideration of its April 25, 2014 order is 8 untimely. Any motion for relief from a nondispositive pretrial order by a Magistrate Judge must be 9 filed before the District Judge within 14 days after being served with a copy. See Fed. R. Civ. P.
10 72(a); N.D. Cal. Civ. L.R. 72-2.¹ Therefore, any objection to the court’s order was due by May 9, 11 2014. Moreover, EQR does not present any argument or evidence that was not before the court in 12 connection with the first joint letter; it simply re-argues its previous position. Having considered the 13 parties’ arguments, the court declines to revisit its prior ruling. EQR shall identify to Plaintiff its 14 30(b)(6) witness(es) within seven days of this order.

II. Conclusion

16 For the reasons stated above, within seven days of this order Berkeley Hardware shall 17 produce additional documents to Plaintiff and EQR shall identify its 30(b)(6) witness(es).

19 || IT IS SO ORDERED.

21 || Dated: May 30, 2014

26 ¹ Civil Local Rule 7-9 governs motions for reconsideration of any interlocutory order. However,
27 the commentary to that rule provides that the rule “does not apply to motions for reconsideration of a
28 Magistrate Judge’s order pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(A).” N.D. Civ. L.R. 7-9 (Commentary).
Parties seeking relief from a Magistrate Judge’s nondispositive pretrial order must instead proceed pursuant to Civil Local Rule 72-2. See id.
